

Egyptian drug lowers blood glucose levels through kidney instead of pancreas

Eva Pharma has launched a new diabetes drug that targets the kidneys, lowering blood glucose levels by sending excess sugar into the urine. Empagliflozin and metformin are the key ingredients of the new medication, which also was proved to help patients prevent heart diseases.