

Finance ministry: Universal healthcare system covers stay-at-home, single mothers

A finance ministry official has said the universal healthcare system, to be launched in July, will provide coverage for stay-at-home and single mothers. In addition, underprivileged individuals will receive free healthcare services. Healthcare providers that seek to join the scheme are required to acquire accreditation certificates.