

New hypersomnia medication approved

The health ministry has approved a new drug for hypersomnia. The EGP 30 medication is a stimulant that helps patients feel awake for up to 12 hours. It is originally intended for drowsiness but can be helpful in treating stroke, multiple sclerosis, and chronic fatigue.