

Psoriasis conference discusses psoriatic arthritis, psoriatic spondylitis treatments

Novartis organized a seminar on psoriasis and the latest treatment options available for the disease, with the participation of the Saudi Society of Clinical Pharmacy, the American Academy of Dermatology, the British Society for Rheumatology, and the University of Oxford. The seminar discussed the role of targeted biotherapy in treating psoriatic arthritis and psoriatic spondylitis. It also stressed the importance of raising the patient's awareness before starting the treatment process.