

Veterinary drugs prices quadruple as companies monopolize market

The discrepancies that exist between the Ministry of Agriculture and the General Organization for Veterinary Services have helped veterinary drug companies like Merial, Pfizer, and Intervet create monopolies and increase prices fourfold.