Universal healthcare system kicks off in Port Said

Phase one of the universal healthcare system has been launched in Port Said. The new scheme aims to provide quality medical services to citizens. The health ministry is still developing the system's IT infrastructure and providing training for the medical staff.