

Street market for prescription medication in Egypt flourishing

Sky-high prices are creating a fast-growing street market for prescription medication. Lax pharmaceutical regulation laws and companies' refusal to withdraw their expired drugs from pharmacies are both seen as the main reason behind the phenomenon.