

Health Insurance Organization increases its healthcare provider support

The Health Insurance Organization has increased the funds allocated to healthcare providers which are used to finance each service covered, so that patients can access services without charge as of next December. It also replaced 70% of the public hospitals' dialysis machines.