

Aspirin overuse can trigger allergic reaction

The overuse of some medications - including painkillers and aspirin - can trigger an allergic reaction. The reaction can range from mild side effects such as a rash or fever to life-threatening reactions that affect multiple systems in the body.