Dryve selected active venture for PnP 2019

DRYVE, the Middle East and North Africa's leading peer-to-peer car sharing platform based in Cairo, Egypt, has been selected as one of 15 startups for the Plug n Play (PnP) 2019 Mobility Innovation Platform. As one of the largest global innovation platforms, Silicon Valley-based Plug n Play brings together the best startups, the world's largest corporations and VC's to partner with, invest in and accelerate great startups which have included tech industry icons such as Google, PayPal and DropBox.

"We're very excited to be selected as one of the final 15 Plug n Play startups," said Gamal Aboul Enein, dryve's CEO and Co-founder. "In addition to the tremendous opportunity for further investments to accelerate dryve's growth, the selection recognises dryve's unique value proposition and is a testament to the solid conceptual and operational framework."
