

Finance minister: President fully supports universal healthcare system

The finance minister, who also chairs the universal healthcare authority, asserted that President Abdel Fattah Al Sisi is fully supportive of the project. The minister said that an actuarial study will be carried out every four years to ensure the system's sustainability, adding that the government would cover about 30% of the new system's budget. The remaining costs would be covered through subscription fees and taxes.