

Superbugs kill 700,000 people a year

Antibiotic-resistant microbes kill about 700,000 people worldwide each year, according to the World Health Organization's representative in Cairo. The Ministry of Health has developed a plan to tackle antibiotic misuse, with calls for legislation banning antibiotic sales without a prescription.