

Parl't health committee passes drug authority bill

The Parliamentary Health Committee has preliminarily passed a government-drafted bill to establish a regulatory body for the pharmaceutical and medical supply industries, known as the supreme drug authority. The new body includes three sub-entities that are responsible for outlining policies, financial issues such as purchasing medical supplies and raw materials as well as for monitoring purposes respectively