

Parl't committee discusses drug authority bill

The Parliamentary Health Committee has decided to remove chapter two of the government-drafted bill to establish a regulatory body for the pharmaceutical and medical supply industries. The eliminated chapter proposed the establishment of a supreme council for pharmaceuticals and medical technology. The committee said that the council could hinder the work of other bodies.