

25 universal healthcare doctors to be trained in London

The Ministry of Health will send 25 doctors to the UK to receive training on the family medicine and referral system of the British National Health Service.