Savills marks 50 years in Middle East at British Embassy as Egypt staff passes 450

Savills Egypt marked the property consultancy's 50th anniversary in the Middle East by sponsoring the King's Birthday Party at the British Embassy in Cairo on Tuesday, its first sponsorship of the event.

British Ambassador to Egypt Mark Bryson-Richardson said businesses that commit to the Egyptian market over the long term strengthen relations between the two countries. "Savills' expansion in Egypt is a practical example of that collaboration, bringing British expertise together with Egyptian talent and local knowledge," he said.

Catesby Langer-Paget, head of Savills Egypt, said Egypt had become an important growth market for the firm in the Middle East. "As we mark 50 years in the Middle East, we continue to invest in the teams and services that will support our next stage of growth in Egypt," he said.

Growth in Egypt

Savills set up in Egypt in 2019 with an office at Arkan in West Cairo, adding a second at Mivida in East Cairo in 2022. Its team has grown from 30 to more than 450 people, and it manages 1.1 million square metres of property. The company says the Egyptian business has been its fastest-growing office in the region for three consecutive years.

Its strategic consultancy team has advised on developments covering more than 10 million square metres and carried out valuations worth more than $2.5bn in 2025. The firm also acts as master agent for Qatari Diar in Egypt, handling sales and marketing.

In 2025 it launched Savills Management Resources in Egypt, adding facilities management to its services. That business now employs nearly 185 people. Savills Egypt says it plans to extend its services to more cities.

Savills' Middle East business began in Dubai in 1976 and now covers the UAE, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain, Oman and Egypt, as well as Pakistan.
