

Pharmacists' Syndicate boycotts drugmakers over profit share cut

The Pharmacists' Syndicate has decided to boycott products belonging to six multinational drugmakers, including Novartis, until they reverse the decision to cut pharmacies' profit share in some medications. The syndicate said it would boycott the Novartis products Voltaren, Catafast, and Cataflam among other medications.